EXPERIENCE

FunkyTeam Ry, Helsinki — Head Coach

September 2015 - April 2016

During my time working for Funky Team I was responsible for seven teams and their physical performance. Working for Funky Team has been the highlight of my career as a coach. I was fortunate to coach Team Finland at the Olympic Trial level We took Team Finland to compete on the world stage against over sixty countries in April 2016 where we brought home a bronze medal.

East Coast Allstars, Australia — Head Coach

August 2012 - June 2013 and again from March 2014 - April 2014

Moved to Australia for a head coaching position. I was in charge of one team on my own and was an assistant coach of a Country team. Our team placed 5th in the world. As coach I have gained much experience working with others and the importance of teamwork.

United States Army, USA — Team Leader

June 2009 - August 2013

While serving in the US Army I was a team leader in charge of six to forty-six soldiers on a regular basis. I served for nearly four years as a combat engineer, improving my leadership skills, critical thinking, and working under immense pressure. During my time in the Army I went to leadership schools and graduated with honors and led my unit in physical fitness.

Personal Statement

I made the decision in 2016 to switch careers and haven't looked back. I have dedicated all the time I can to learning web development. If I am not spending time with family and friends, I find myself thoroughly engaged in learning as much as I can about web development. I have a keen curiosity, a strong attention to detail, and I am exceedingly trainable from years spent serving in the United States Army.

I am new to development but have a huge passion for programing, a desire to convert client requirements into exciting online applications, and continue down the path to becoming a competent 'full-stack' developer .
